Urban Surf 4 Kids, had their first surf day in Newport Beach this weekend. Local hero Bruce "Snake" Gabrielson came out to help the kids understand how the ocean works. Plus, world renowned waterman Tom Jones came out to talk with the kids about how they too can come out of the foster system and do great things with their lives.

Local Pro surfer Jason Harris also came out to help and donated 10 of his wetsuits for the kids to use.

"My mom read about this in the O.C. Register and told me about it and I said oh yeah I'll help. I'll do what ever they want me to do to stoke the kids out," said Jason.
